ReCreateX

Please, read the present license agreement carefully before using ReCreateX.

By starting to use the ReCreateX software licenses, the licensee agrees with the conditions of the present license agreement.

By subscribing to the present contract, you agree to becoming the "user" or the "licensee" of the licenses you have bought (and may possibly buy) and accept all the conditions of the present end user license agreement without reservations.

The present license agreement constitutes the entire contract entered into by the licensee and Syx Automations (hereinafter called SA) relating to its content. This is why, insofar as allowed by applicable law, the conditions of the present license contract will take priority over every communication or publicity, if this material is contrary to the present conditions or if its date is prior to the one of the present license agreement.

By accepting the conditions of the present agreement, no property right whatsoever will be granted relating to the programs and products that are the property of SA or of the suppliers of SA.

The client is not entitled to make any copy whatsoever of the software except for a necessary back-up intended for archiving purposes. No copy whatsoever, in any form whatsoever, will be passed to third parties.

3 Transferability of licenses

The licenses are registered on the name of the end client and can not at any time be transferred and/or resold.

4 License model

Every license is linked to a module.

The user accepts that:

- each department/legal entity/database disposes of its own number of licenses per module
- licenses of a certain module can not be exchanged for licenses of another module
- licenses are never refundable

Accumulation of licenses between different departments/entities/databases is excluded at all times.

The number of licenses bought per module and per department/legal entity/database determines how many persons can use the module within the department/legal entity/database in question.

The user accepts to use the licenses by way of the client server environment. The client server can be operational from the client's own infrastructure or in ASP in which case everything is operational from an own ASP environment or from the data centres of SA.

It is at all times forbidden to host ReCreateX with external suppliers.

5 Secrecy

The user acknowledges and accepts to treat the software bought in a confidential way and to grant access to non-users and/or give information concerning the software in question.
